

Nick Ehlen

BROKER, MELVIN MARK BROKERAGE COMPANY

Nick Ehlen, a Portland native, has always had an adventurous and entrepreneurial spirit, but no matter where his travels take him something always draws him back to his home. "My time living overseas gave me a tremendous appreciation for Portland, its people and its potential. I love our city and our state, and I am excited for its future and what it can become. I chose to come home, back to Portland, because of this love and sense of place. I would not have this unique appreciation if I had not had the opportunity to live abroad."

Nick began his career in commercial real estate while interning with Melvin Mark after his junior year at the London School of Economics. His initial project, an extensive survey of the downtown and suburban office markets in Portland, allowed him to gain a strong understanding of the office marketplace in those areas.

Since joining Melvin Mark in 2006, Nick has focused his efforts in and around downtown and close-in Portland including Johns Landing, the Pearl District, Inner-Eastside, and Central Business District. He is experienced in tenant/landlord representation and property acquisition/sale for both retail and office clients.
